OFFICER OF LOYAL LEGION

Held Position of Recorder for Twenty-four Years and Was Registrar-in-chief Since 1897-Wife, Son, and Daughter Survive-Funeral to Be Held on Thursday.

Maj. William Pitkin Huxford, one of the most widely known veterans of the civil war, and for many years closely identified with the Loyal Legion, died at his apartments in the Albemarle, Seventeenth and T streets northwest, early yesterday morning

Maj. Huxford's death was superinduced by a bullet wound received during the battle at Malvern Hill, Va., in 1862, when he was left on the battlefield for dead. Later he was picked up and sent to the Union Hospital, near Mount Savage, Md., where he was captured when the Union forces abandoned it after a severe fight with the Confederates. He, with many others, was sent to Libby Prison, at
